

Daniel Murphy

Head of Sales

As Head of Sales at BeyondTech, Daniel is responsible for the company's global sales strategy, customer acquisition and retention, and revenue growth initiatives. With a background spanning B2B and B2C sales leadership, Daniel has spent over 15 years optimizing sales operations, implementing customer engagement strategies, and driving growth across international markets.

Daniel is passionate about expanding the customer base and ensuring that sales teams are equipped with the tools and strategies needed to succeed. He collaborates with marketing, finance, and operations teams to align sales efforts with broader business objectives.

Elie Zhang

Chief Financial Officer

Elie Zhang serves as Chief Financial Officer at BeyondTech, overseeing the company's financial strategy, risk management, and long-term profitability. With over 20 years of experience in corporate finance and investment strategy, Elie has held leadership positions at several Fortune 500 firms, where she specialized in capital allocation, financial forecasting, and cost efficiency initiatives.

A firm believer in sustainable financial growth, Elie is focused on balancing innovation with fiscal responsibility. She plays a crucial role in setting the future direction of BeyondTech, including the final approval of any new revenue models or pricing structures. Elie is known for her data-driven approach to decision-making.

Raj Patel

Chief Technology Officer

Raj Patel, Chief Technology Officer at BeyondTech is responsible for technology strategy, digital transformation, and IT infrastructure. With expertise in software development, cybersecurity, and enterprise system integration, Raj has led large-scale digital innovation projects in the technology and telecommunications sector for over 18 years.

Raj's team is focused on optimizing internal systems and customer-facing technology solutions. He works closely with finance and operations teams to assess scalability, data security, and system compatibility when introducing new business models or digital experiences.

Michael Carter

Chief Marketing Officer

As Chief Marketing Officer, Michael Carter leads BeyondTech's brand strategy, customer engagement, and market positioning efforts. With over 20 years of experience in global brand management and consumer insights, Michael has worked with leading tech and retail brands to drive customer loyalty and brand equity.

Michael is deeply involved in customer experience strategy, ensuring that pricing and purchasing models align with consumer expectations. His team oversees digital marketing, brand communications, and competitive analysis to maintain the company's position as an industry leader.

Asha Mehta

Chief Operating Officer

Asha Mehta, Chief Operating Officer, oversees BeyondTech's day-to-day business operations, supply chain management, and customer service strategy. With a background in logistics, process optimization, and organizational leadership, Asha has spent over 25 years in executive roles at global firms, ensuring operational excellence at scale.

Asha is dedicated to streamlining business processes and ensuring that any new initiatives, including financing models, align with long-term business efficiency. She works closely with finance, sales, and technology teams to evaluate operational feasibility and customer service impact before major rollouts.